

WHS - Policy Statement

Recruitment Edge is committed to providing a safe and healthy working environment for its permanent and temporary workers, and to eliminating conditions and incidents that could result in personal injury or ill health.

Recruitment Edge shall provide a safe and healthy environment for visitors and contractors who are required to enter Company premises. The Company will ensure that safe plant, machinery and equipment are provided for all staff and that safe and healthy work practices are employed. The Company in implementing this policy will observe the State & Federal legislation and good, established practices including Australian Standards.

To achieve this, Recruitment Edge will maintain a Work Health and Safety Management System. This system will focus responsibilities and resources in the areas of accident and injury prevention, hazard removal and control, health and welfare preservation, the development of safe and healthy work practices, the promotion of health and safety awareness, the provision of training in safe and healthy work practices, the compliance with health and safety legislation and regulations, the rehabilitation of injured employees and consultative mechanisms.

Safety at work is a shared responsibility between the company and workers. All workers have a general responsibility in terms of the Work Health and Safety Act 2011 (WHS Act). The Company is committed to consulting with staff in a meaningful and effective manner on WHS issues, enabling employees to contribute to decisions that may affect their health, safety and welfare at work.

The success of the Work Health and Safety Management System relies on the commitment of management at all levels, to its successful implementation and to the involvement and commitment of staff.
